THE WALLING TRIAL.

More Evidence For the Prosecution Introduced.

SECOND WEEK OF THE CASE.

Nearly the Entire Day Was Devoted to Expert Testimony—The Testimony of the Coroner, Dr. Carothers and Photographer Carlo—Scott Jackson Removed to Covington Jail for Safety.

CINCINNATI, June 2.—Just before the trial of Alonzo Walling for the murder of Pearl Bryan was begun in Newport yesterday Judge Helm issued an order removing Scott Jackson from the Newport jail to the one in Covington, Ky., giving as his reasons that the Newport jail was unsafe and unfit for him. Covington is just across the Licking river and the jail there is very much safer and in much better condition. Jackson was removed in the afternoon. He did not want to be removed, preferring to remain where he has made a few friends.

Then the hearing of Walling's case was resumed. The cross-examination of Dr. W. S. Tingley, coroner of Campbell county, was continued by Colonel Washington. He said that the head was cut off by some person having knowledge of surgery and anatomy, as was especially shown by the neat manner in which the head was severed, and taking into consideration that the decapitation was done in the dark, that a human body lying prone on the ground at an angle of 30 degrees, with the head severed and the neck at the lower end, the blood, if it were in a liquid state, would be emptied from the body.

Dr. Tingley described the position of the body as lying on a terrace, neck down and the hands up close to the stump and the feet crossed. He said it was impossible to tell if death had been caused by hemorrhages, from the blood found on the ground. Under redirect examination Dr. Tingley said that no puncture of a hypodermic needle was found at the postmortem examination, and that he had examined the vital organs and found no evidence that death was due to other causes than hemorrhages.

Ben Weaver, a soldier, stationed at Fort Thomas, was the next witness. He said he saw a pint and a half of blood on top of the terrace upon which the body lay and some hair in the blood clot. It was blonde hair, and the witness identified the exhibit. He also identified two hairpins as being the ones he found at the head and feet of the body. He testified to finding the piece of shawl, or fascinator, which he gave to Sheriff Plummer, but which has never been introduced in exhibition testimony.

Photographer Carlo was the next witness. The ghastly photographs of Pearl Bryan's body were produced and identified by the picture maker. Then they were passed to the 12 jurors, who looked at them earnestly. The defense had three photographs made of the fence and hillside along the Alexander pike, between the point where Coachman Jackson says his passengers left the cab, and the point opposite where the body was found. The prosecution raised strong objections to the introduction of the pictures at this time, but the court ruled for the defense. An exception was reserved.

Dr. Robert Carothers, who conducted the autopsy was the next witness. He gave a description of the body and said the skin was retracted from the neck wound and from the cuts in the left hand. He gave considerable testimony of a purely technical character.

Judge Helm asked the witness if the girl's death could not have occurred from violence before the severing of the head and the same conditions be found which were present. The witness answered in the negative.

Health Officer J. O. Jenkins was with the other physicians at the postmortem examination. He became the next witness, and described the severed neck and the wounded hand of the girl.

"One stroke made the three cuts on the girl's fingers," said Dr. Jenkins. "The cuts were made during life."

Dr. Jenkins said that there was no evidence of an attempted operation, nor could the mark of a hypodermic needle be found. He went carefully over the surface of the body, noting a number of red marks. He was confident that none of the marks was the wound of a hypodermic needle.

The cross-examination began, and Dr. Jenkins surprised Colonel Washington by stating exactly how far blood would spurt if a body were decapitated.

"If a body lying as this one was found at Fort Thomas, were decapitated, the blood would spurt six feet eight inches. I have arrived at the conclusion mathematically, from the records of two decapitations in Paris," said the doctor.

Dr. F. W. Fishback was the next witness. From what he saw at the postmortem he believed the girl's head was severed at a single stroke. All the organs were carefully examined. Save a little blood in the lungs and a clot in the pulmonary artery, no blood was found. The girl must have been alive when her throat was cut.

Dr. G. I. Cullen of Cincinnati was called. He testified that he thought the girl was killed by the severing of the head.

Mary E. Stanley, Pearl Bryan's sister, was the next witness. She described the valises and all the articles of apparel which her sister Pearl took with her as she left Greencastle for the last time. She identified the green-checked wrapper in which the girl's body was found, the bloody valise as that of her brother's. The jewelry was identified, as well as the hairpins found at the scene of the murder.

Pearl's mother was the next witness. She said she is 63. She told of her family, of her daughter Pearl and of Scott Jackson, who first met the girl at the Bryan homestead. Pearl corresponded with Jackson after he came to Cincinnati.

"I found six or seven letters and a card or two," she said, "and I have given them all to the attorneys."

Court adjourned at 5 o'clock.

NO ATTEMPT AT SETTLEMENT.

Both Sides Are Determined and the Dead-lock Continues Unbroken.

LINTON, Ind., June 2.—The situation in this section of coal miners is a strange one—peaceful at all times. There has been no attempt to adjust differences which exist between miners and operators, and the feeling between them is friendly. It seems to be a matter of waiting for each other to act. The greater number of miners here are found to be householders, who greatly deplore the reports of violence which have been sent out from different points in the Indiana fields, and who claim that there has been no foundation for them.

The miners have now been out since May 1, and of the mines operated by members of the Indiana bituminous coal operators no coal has been mined. Only two mines near here have been running, and both of them have been paying last year's scale—60 cents per ton. These mines, it is claimed, are co-consumers' mines, and are simply running to supply their own factories. As long as there is no demand for the coal there will most likely be no attempt to come to an agreement.

Linton depends almost entirely upon trade from miners, and has suffered perhaps more than any city in the coal district. Owing to this fact, the merchants all complain of dullness of trade, and are hopeful of an early settlement. The mines of the Indiana Coal company at Dugger are running, but only on about one-third time, and it is claimed by operators that they cannot make money at 60-cent scale, but are running simply to hold trade.

All operators here claim that the books of last year will show that the mines did nothing more than pay expenses last year. The miners here seem to be level-headed men, who are not apt to resort to violent means to advance their cause. Great numbers have gone to White river, where they are camping and enjoying a much-needed vacation.

COLD-BLOODED MURDER.

Famous Young Man Shot and Killed by a Negro.

WHEELING, June 2.—A cold-blooded murder occurred in Grafton yesterday at noon, the perpetrator being a negro boy of 18, and the victim a popular and prominent young man of 25.

While Charles L. Magill, a son of Lewis Magill, a leading lumber dealer, was standing in front of a Latrobe street business house, Frank Powell, colored, with whom he had previously had some words, came up. A few more words passed and the negro pulled his revolver and fired. The shot passed through Magill's heart and he died in 10 minutes. The murderer was arrested. There is much excitement over the occurrence, but no fears of violence are entertained.

FOUL PLAY FEARED.

The Body of an Unknown Man Found in an Out-of-the-Way Place.

BRAZIL, Ind., June 2.—The little town of Stearleyville, six miles south of here, is in a whirlwind of excitement over the finding of the body of an unknown man. George Stearley and H. O. Pierce were going over Mr. Stearley's farm, when the body was found, lying upon its face. It was clothed in a dark coat and vest, orange-colored pants and a black hat—all new.

The remains were badly decomposed, but were those of a man about 45 years old. He had been dead probably a week. He is presumed to have been murdered and left in this lonely, unoccupied spot. Coroner Gifford left at once for the scene.

Standing by Debs.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 2.—A conference of the various railway brotherhoods, including the conductors, engineers, firemen, brakemen and switchmen, was held here and resolutions were passed endorsing the bill now pending in congress looking to curtailing the powers and jurisdiction of federal court judges in contempt cases, the bill having its inciting cause in the punishment inflicted upon Debs and other American Railway union officers by Judge Woods at Chicago.

Dropped Dead of Heart Disease.

LAWRENCEBURG, Ind., June 2.—Archibald Bruce died suddenly yesterday from heart disease. He had risen from his bed and while dressing fell to the floor and died instantly. Mr. Bruce was the oldest cigar manufacturer in the city. He was a prominent member of the Masonic order and pronounced the brightest and best posted member of the fraternity in this country. A wife but no children survive him. He leaves a small estate and was 54 years of age.

Shot His Fiancee.

CHELSEA, Mich., June 2.—Emma Morekell was shot and killed last night by her fiancee, Fred Hydloff, who was in a jealous rage because the young lady had been escorted home by another man. Hydloff then shot himself, and not succeeding in fatally wounding himself, he tried to batter his own brains in, but he was finally controlled and taken into custody.

BURYING THE DEAD.

Over a Thousand of the Moscow Victims Interred.

LAID IN GREAT TRENCHES.

The Bodies Placed Close Together, No Coffins Being Used—Only About Half of the Dead Bodies Identified—Russians May Call It a Christian Burial but Americans Would Not.

MOSCOW, June 2.—The disaster on the Hodynski plain is constantly gaining in proportions as the investigations by the authorities continues. It is now estimated that a total of 3,600 persons were killed and 1,200 persons injured, the majority of them fatally, by the disastrous crush on Saturday morning.

There were 1,277 victims buried yesterday. The bodies of those who were identified and claimed by relatives were interred in private graves, but at the expense of the municipality. The great number of the unidentified dead were buried in 11 great trenches, each 50 yards long. The trenches were deep, and the mutilated bodies had to be placed close together to find room for them all.

There were 600 workmen engaged all night long at the Vaganoskoe cemetery digging the trenches.

Many priests, prominent among them being John of Cronstadt, famous for his piety and his power to console and, it is believed, by the peasants, to heal, and many military chaplains conducted the services, the friends crowding around the graves. The surviving friends and relatives are for the most part of the ignorant and simple-minded peasant class, and their grief and terror at the sudden calamity are expressed in very demonstrative fashion. The scenes at the cemetery were pitiful and terrible in the extreme.

Only about half the bodies recovered have been identified, and the majority of these are men, though there are many children and several old people, 80 years old.

Most of the private graves of the victims have been marked with wooden crosses, placed there by relatives, and inscribed with texts of Scripture. The people also strewed twigs among the graves.

The clothes of the victims were heaped in a huge pile in one corner of the cemetery and in this the people rummaged all day long, seeking the slightest trace that would afford a clew to the fate of those missing.

The bearded, torn, bloodstained heap of confused tatters, thrown all together, afforded little material for identification, even if it had been systematically sorted out and the appearance of the pieces preserved. But after being pulled over a few times by the crowd of searchers there was no semblance to the original appearance of the garments left.

The survivors have the vaguest idea of what happened to them or how they escaped. They only remember a terrible struggle in the vortex of conflicting human muscular energy. Many of them ascribe their escape to a direct miracle. It is touching to witness how these poor, ignorant people help to console each other, to dress the dead and to care for the children.

Yesterday evening the czar gave a banquet to the representatives of all the estates in his realm. The foreign representatives were also present.

In the afternoon the czar and empress visited the Marie hospital, where they spoke to and consoled the patients injured in Saturday's crush.

No Americans Hurt.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—United States Minister Breckinridge has cabled the state department from Moscow that no Americans were hurt in the accident there Saturday.

ARMY WORM ON THE MARCH.

Great Destruction to Wheat, Corn, Rye and Oats in Indiana.

FRANKFORT, Ind., June 2.—The farming community west of this city is excited over the sudden advent of what is known as the army worm, which resembles the caterpillar to a certain extent, and which is very destructive to corn, wheat and oats.

The farming land in the vicinity of Jefferson is described as being one living, moving mass of these worms, which are moving in a southern direction, completely destroying every growing thing in their path. While a few of them have been noticeable the past week the great army did not make its appearance until yesterday, after the storm of Saturday night. Not since 1862 has the army worm been an annoyance in this county. The farmers fear that their entire crop of wheat, rye, corn and oats will be entirely destroyed.

Wreckage of the Steamer Cleora.

LAPORTE, Ind., June 2.—The high winds of the last few days have washed up great quantities of wreckage from the ill-fated steamer Cleora at points between Michigan City and New Buffalo. The wreckage shows marks of having been afire. It comprises furniture from the cabin and parts of the vessel's upper works. This week tugs will search the lake west and east of Buffalo, with the hope of finding the hull of the wrecked steamer.

One Farmer Kills Another.

CYPRESS, Ark., June 2.—Charles Seagrist shot and killed William McLeod here yesterday. They were both prosperous farmers and had a difficulty over a settlement. Seagrist is in jail.

WITH BUT LITTLE CEREMONY.

Two Negroes Hung by a Mob and Their Bodies Blotted with Bullets.

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 2.—At 10:45 o'clock yesterday morning a mob of 600 armed men broke into the Webster building during the trial of Jesse Slayton, charged with assaulting Mrs. Howard Bryan last Thursday and took the prisoner from the officers. Slayton's trial had already begun behind locked doors, and a heavy armed guard of men were present to protect the prisoner from any demonstration of violence.

The mob forced the doors and with a noiseless rush swept back the spectators and guards and seized and carried the negro out into the street. A rope was placed around Slayton's neck and he was dragged up Broad street, the crowd shooting at him as they went along. Near the bell tower where they swung the negro up and perforated him with bullets.

After this, the mob, as coolly and deliberately as in the first instance, went immediately to the courthouse and overpowering the jailer, took Will Miles, a negro, charged with assaulting Mrs. Albright two years ago, and marched him slowly to where Slayton's lifeless body was hanging from a tree. The trembling negro was made to look upon the fate of his brother in crime, then a rope was placed about his neck and he was slowly suspended in the air and his body filled with bullets.

The bodies of the two negro brutes were left hanging during the afternoon and a surging mass of humanity was packed around the scene. The greatest excitement prevails here, especially among the negroes, and it is probable that further trouble will ensue.

Mrs. Bryan was assaulted at Clapp's Factory, four miles from here, early on Thursday morning. She is a young woman, not over 18 years of age. Her husband had left home for Columbus about daybreak. Shortly after he left a big, burly negro entered Mrs. Bryan's private room and succeeded in assaulting her. She fought him fiercely, but her weak condition rendered her struggles of no avail. He succeeded in carrying out his brutal purpose and left her half unconscious on the floor of her room. Regardless of her condition, Mrs. Bryan, rushed to the door and fired two pistol shots at the negro without avail. In a short time Mr. Bryan returned, and on being apprised of the crime, rushed immediately back to Columbus and with the sheriff and an armed posse began to scour the woods for the negro, who was soon captured.

MINERS HORRIBLY BURNED.

Five of Them Frightfully Burned, Two Fatally.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., June 2.—Five miners were horribly roasted by the explosion of gas at the Buckridge colliery yesterday. The victims are:

George Faust, frightfully burned about the entire body; died two hours afterward.

Samuel Fanst, a brother of George, burned about the hands, face and body; recovery doubtful.

Thomas Thompson, burned from head to foot; died within an hour.

Daniel Schmelz, burned about head, face and upper part of the body; may recover.

John Sprecht, burned about head, face and body; may recover.

Seven other workmen, who were within 25 yards of the place, escaped injury. They were employed in No. 5 vein, which was known to be full of gas. They were using safety lamps while brushing the gas from the chamber. Suddenly there was a loud explosion, and the five men were hurled to the floor, surrounded by flames. Had it not been for the proximity of their fellow workmen, the men would have all been killed. They were carried to a place of safety before the deadly after-damp had had time to accumulate.

Robert Goate Dead.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Robert Goate, 80, died at his home in this city, aged 90. He was born on one of the Orkney islands, and came to this country in 1831. He invented many of the improvements of marine engines. He made the model of the monitor for Ericsson, and had a great deal to do with the vessel's construction and arrangement of its machinery. His inventions and improvements are found on every ship that uses a marine engine. His last invention was patented as late as seven years ago. An elder brother, John Eason, was the engineer who introduced gas into London.

AUGUSTA, Me., June 2.—The body of the late Hon. James G. Elaine will be taken from the Oak Hill cemetery, Washington, and will be brought to this city. Mrs. Elaine has decided to have both the body of her husband and son Walker buried on Burnt Hill here and the removal will soon occur. Mrs. Elaine has purchased three acres on the front of the hill for the purpose. If Colonel Copper is willing the remains of his wife, daughter of Mrs. Elaine, will also be brought here.

General Lee Sails for Cuba.

General Lee says he will carefully study the situation in Cuba, and does not intend to be hoodwinked regarding battles.

Western World's Largest City.

Destiny set off the point at the junction of Hudson river and Long Island sound for mighty city, which in time will be, except Chicago, the largest city of the world. It will take Chicago a long time to catch up with New York, however, now that New York, Brooklyn and Staten Island have been united into one city.

The law which has changed a city of 1,600,000 inhabitants into one of 3,000,000 is very simple. It merely provides that a commission of nine citizens shall submit by the first day of next February a plan for the municipal government of greater New York as one and the same city, and that the formal consolidation shall take place Jan. 1, 1898.

Whether regarded in its political, commercial or social aspect, this consolidation of the two vast cities by the sea into one is the most important step taken in the United States the present year. Americans the country over congratulate New York on rising above local jealousies. The combination gives us all a city to be proud of and to glory in. Americans feel that they all have a share in its greatness and glory.

Greater New York has, all told, $2,583,324,329 worth of taxable property. It contains 1,100 curches, 90 postoffices, 1,120 hotels and probably not less than 6,000 beer saloons, liquor stores and drinking places.

The enlarged city will include three whole counties and part of a fourth. The election of the first mayor of greater New York will take place in November, 1897.

The workman often eats his lunch on the same bench where he does his work. The office man turns his desk into dining-table. Neither takes the out of doors exercise he needs, neither takes the proper time for eating. It is small wonder that the digestion of both is out of order. In such cases Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets come to their assistance by adding nature in taking care of the food.

The cause of nine-tenths of the sickness of the world is constipation. From this one cause come indigestion; disorders of the stomach, liver and kidneys; biliousness, headaches, flatulence, hiccups, impurity of the blood and the serious complications that follow. To begin with, constipation is a little thing, and a little thing will cure it. The "Pleasant Pellets" are tiny, sugar-coated granules. They will perfectly cure the worst case of constipation and indigestion. If the druggist tries to sell you some other pill that pays him greater profit, just think of what will best pay you.

MARIE DECCA,

To Appear at the Opera House in a Song Recital Next Friday Evening.

Mlle. Decca made her debut in London in 1887, at the Covent Garden Theatre, and was immediately hailed as "The American Jenny Lind" by the best English critics.

Among these was Mr. Lumley, now editor of the London Court Journal, who pronounced the Ohio girl as one of the greatest singers, if not the greatest of the nineteenth century. He insisted that her phenomenal voice stamped her as another "Swedish Nightingale." Since then she has been repeatedly called "The American Jenny Lind" by the best critics in both hemispheres.

Only a fortnight ago in Florida Mlle. Decca had a remarkable experience on account of her wonderful verisimilitude to the great Swedish singer.

While giving a son recital at the Florida Chamber of Commerce, an old man arose in the audience in the midst of the program and requested Mlle. Decca to sing "Cointing Thro' the Rye," coupling the request with the statement that he had heard Jenny Lind sing this Scotch ballad in 1818 in New York. Mlle. Decca cheerfully complied with the request and was rewarded by the old gentleman rising to his feet at the close of the song and saying that in some respects her voice was even sweeter and more sympathetic than that of the Swedish singer. Of course the big audience applauded to the echo this most unexpected, though well-merited testimony to Mlle. Decca's beautiful voice.—The Cincinnati Enquirer.

This popular singer will give a song recital at the opera house next Friday night. Fifty cents will admit you to any seat down stairs, while the admission to the balcony and gallery is only 25 cents. No extra charge for reserved seats.

IN MEMORIAM

On Emily Cecilia Murphy, departed this life Monday, May 29th, 1896, and in the twenty-first year of her age.

She had given into a mother's keeping a little flower as pure and sweet as a lily. It grew and blossomed, and by its gentle grace and sweet fragrance made the home life bright, beautiful and happy, and as it grew to perfume itself with its white leaves unfolded and sent up its sweet perfume to Heaven. Our Saviour said "that flower is too pure for earth" so he sent the reaper death to take it and transplant it in Heaven. A few days before her death she lay in Heaven earnestly at the pleasure of our dear Lord, enveloped in a white robe, and awaiting him to see him suffer. All during her sickness and even when suffering intensely her lips moved in prayer. She never complained; and though her poor wan face quivered with pain she forced a sweet smile to her lips. One bright, sunny day she turned her face toward the window and looked at the beautiful hills of Aberdeen, the rippling waters of the Ohio, and said, "Oh, it makes me feel so sad! Sister, I will soon be gone. How I wish that I could walk up and down the street one more time before I go." It seems that this room is filled with the wishful and hopes and they are all vanishing like smoke." Then she smiled and said "rest, sweet rest."

She was dying fast, and the the hours went by.

On a desolate hour were they. Her mind had hidden away somewhere.

Teardrop of a weeping and fretted brow. Ere she passed from life away.

We leaned on hope that she was all in vain. Till the terrible word at last.

Told our stricken hearts she was out of pain, And her beautiful life had passed.

Emily was so patient in her great suffering, and her loving heart went out to those who so kindly attended her. The religion which always had a place in her convulsions entered into her experience and deeply seated itself in her heart.

She grew tremulous with humanity rather than rapacious with avarice and only gently soothed her soul her message from this world to the blessed haven of rest. Her death was so beautiful and sweet.

The image of our enfeebled Saviour lay on her breast as the Angel of Mercy kissed the eyelids down over the big blue eyes and set the beautiful gates ajar that the white-robbed soul might enter in.

We bore her out to her resting place, Mother, sisters and all;

There was sorrow on almost every face,

And oh! what tears did fall!

Teardrop from hearts for a heart asleep,

Teardrop from sorrow, a deepest deep,

Teardrop from eyes that lowered down;

sisters, kindred and friends.

Give the white-robed soul a flower and a crown.

For the white-robed soul a flower and a crown.

And we wept our tears and left her there.

And brought her memory home—

Oh! she was beautiful, sweet and fair.

A heavenly hymn, a still, sweet prayer,

Pure as the snow, white as the foam.

That seeks a love, far shore,

Dear sister! bless from amid the blest.

The hearts that will guard thy place of rest.

Forever, forever, forever more. Her SISTERS.

MRS. W. T. SPEARS.

Sudden Death Monday Evening of One of Washington's Most Estimable Christian Women.

Mrs. W. T. Spears, wife of Rev. W. T. Spears of the Washington Presbyterian Church, died at the family residence at that place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Spears had been confined to the house during the past winter and spring with a cough and bronchial trouble, but had seemingly recovered and had been going about for nearly a month.

Yesterday she drove to this city and returned home in apparently good health.

On entering the house she was seized with a coughing spell and ruptured a blood vessel, dying in five minutes, in her husband's arms.

Deceased was noted in the community for her untiring activity in the cause of religion, being foremost in all movements for the furtherance of the gospel of Christ. She was universally beloved and the hearts of the entire community are bowed with sympathizing sorrow for the stricken husband, who has, in God's providence, been called upon to give up the treasure of his life.

The funeral will occur to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The services will be conducted by Rev. S. D. Boggs, of Catlettsburg, assisted by Rev. W. O. Cochran of this city. Interment at Washington.

NOW FOR THOSE "INDIANS."

The Maysvilles Leave on the Flyer This Afternoon For a Series of Games at Knoxville.

The Maysvilles leave on the F. F. V. at 4:25 this afternoon for Knoxville to play a series of games with that crack Tennessee ball team.

The Knoxville was one of the few teams that got the best of Maysville's crack nine a year ago and the boys go down this week to even up the score. And they will do it, too, if they get anything like fair treatment from the umpire. The Tennessee "Indians" haven't got Wiley Davis, "the squirrel hunter," and South-paw Hill to help them out. Maysville is much stronger in the box than she was a year ago.

With Leever and Newton to do the pitching, they ought to at least break even on the series.

The following players will make the trip: Leever, Newton, Kellner, Curle, Gray, Lautenbach, Wadsworth, Lucas, Sutherland, Rudy and Cox.

Success to the Maysvilles.

The Portmouths will play here Thursday and Friday, June 11th and 12th.

GETS NO PARDON.

Governor Bradley Overrides the Application of Bob Farrell.

Governor Bradley has overruled a petition for the pardon of Bob Farrell, who is serving a life sentence for the murder of Thomas Calvert.

In passing on the application the Governor adopted some vigorous language, showing his entire belief that Farrell was guilty of all that was charged against him.

Farrell has been confined in the penitentiary over nine years, and has made a strong fight before each administration for a pardon. It is said that he boasted of having been in the Lincoln conspiracy, and attempted to secure favor with the past administrations on this account, but recently he went back on that story.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed in the Spring, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malaria poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, yield to Electric Bitters. Only fifty cents per bottle at J. James Wood's drug store.

PUSHED OFF THE VIADUCT.

MR. W. C. SLY Painfully Injured Monday Afternoon—Accident to an F. F. V. Engine.

The big engine pulling the westbound F. F. V. Monday afternoon blew out a cylinder head at a point about half way between Limestone and Market, and the accident to the train was followed shortly afterwards by an accident to one of the spectators who crowded up on the viaduct to take a look at the disabled "iron horse."

The engine came to a stop just east of Market street. The noise soon attracted a throng, and the people walked out on the viaduct and crowded about the scene.

Presently the steam was turned on, and it rushed out of the broken cylinder. This stampeded the crowd, and as the people surged back a school teacher by the name of Mr. W. C. Sly was pushed off the viaduct. He fell some ten or twelve feet, dislocating his right wrist and receiving a painful bruise on his right cheek. Several others narrowly escaped being injured.

Mr. Sly was carried into the Grand View Hotel where his injuries were dressed. He is still confined to his bed, but was better this morning. He taught school at Helena the past session.

The yard engine took the train and disabled engine to the depot. The accident delayed the train here some time.

May Not Be Seated.

Lexington's newly appointed Auditor, L. E. Pearce, formerly of Maysville, may not be seated because of ineligibility, says a special from that city. The city charter prohibits any man from serving as Auditor who has not been a resident of that city for five years next preceding his appointment. It is claimed that Mr. Pearce was a citizen of Jessamine County in 1892, and as such voted in the North Keene precinct in the November election of 1892. Mr. Pearce was appointed Auditor by Mayor Simrall a few days ago to succeed Auditor B. J. Welsh, who died in Cincinnati week before last.
